INTRODUCTION

The purpose of this book is to gather together, in one volume, all the available genealogical information on the Gribbel and Elkins families. A considerable amount of this information has been published previously, in which case proper acknowledgement is made in the text or in the General References list at the end of the book. However, much of the material has not appeared in printed form before; this is especially true of the Gribbel family in Cornwall, part of the Latta family, and much of the Fox and Crozer families. This latter fact led me to undertake the publishing of this volume; it would have been a shame not to make available to those who might be interested the bits and pieces which only I had.

Naturally, any compilation of facts of this kind will turn up inconsistencies and contradictions. Where these have appeared, the problem has been resolved in favor of the more reasonable or creditable date or record. To maintain accuracy, any suggestions for corrections will be welcomed. It is not necessary to ask permission for use of any material in the book.

Recognition and thanks are due to William Laimbeer of Media, Pennsylvania, for his research in Pennsylvania and New York, and to C. Arthur Broomfield of Salcombe, Devon, England, for his original search of the Gribbels in Cornwall. To Miss Berenice Tuttle of Rutland, Vermont, my sincere thanks for her editorial assistance in preparing the text.

A final word to the reader: I hope you derive as much pleasure from reading this book as I have had in assembling the material for it.

THE GRIBBEL FAMILY

(John Gribbel, 2nd, married Natalie Fox Elkins.)

THE GRIBBEL DESCENT

The Gribbel - Gribble - Grebell - Groebell Coat-of-Arms has been handed down in our family complete with German motto "FUER EHRE WARHEIT UND GOTT" (For Honor, Truth and God) for many generations. The colors are silver (steel?) on red. The maces probably denote that the original bearer was in the "infantry" of his day. The other Coat-of-Arms of the Grebels (with the Dalmatian crest) goes back to Zurich, 1023. This with the German motto seems to indicate that the family originated on the Swiss-German border, but the line has not been traced to that point.

The various spellings mean very little, as most likely the pronunciation of the original name was GRAY-BELL, with equal accent on both syllables. When the first Grebells moved from the continent to Southern England (probably in the 15th or 16th century) the pronunciation took two courses, with accent on the first and on the second syllable. After that in the Anglo-Saxon tongue (which takes notorious liberties with spelling) the name was spelled the way a person pleased, and there you get the seventeen variations: Gribbel, Gribbell, Gribble, Grible, Gribel, Gribell, Gribble, Griebel, Grebel, Greebel, Grebell, Greble, Grebble, Grubel, Grybbell, Grybble, Groebell.

Perhaps we all should be calling it GRIBBELL, with accent on the second syllable, since his own marriage was so recorded by a parish clerk, at an early date when illiteracy was the rule rather than the exception in England.

"These pistols were given me by my Grandfather James Gribble in Dec. 1906. He said never to let my Father know I had them. He said they had made enough trouble. They belonged to his Grandfather. I promised to keep them and to do as he said to do with them. He seemed mysterious about it."

(James Gribble's instructions to his grandson, Wakeman Griffin Gribbel, were to give the pistols to his oldest son on his 21st birthday, but only if after his son John Gribbel's death. I received them June 10, 1937, and still have them.—J. Gribbel, 2nd.)

His company merged with others as The American Meter Co., of which he became president, and later chairman of the board. He was also on the board of many other companies, primarily in public utilities and insurance; for twenty-five years was president of the Tampa (Fla.) Gas Co.

He was a devoted scholar and recognized authority on Scottish and early American history, and at his death was president of the Historical Society of Philadelphia. THE UNDERHILL FAMILY

Ancestors of Capt. John Underhill

(Accepted by the College of Arms, Jan. 7, 1932)

Ref.: J. F. Morrison, London, England

1. ROBERT DE UNDERHULLE, of Bushbury, Staffordshire, England, was born about 1260; living in June 1313. (As surnames began to be used in the thirteenth century, it is interesting to know of a small village in Staffordshire still called Underhull.) His son and grandson, both of Wednesfield, Staffordshire, were: Richard de Underhulle, living in 1343; and Thomas Underhulle, living in 1398, and who married Isabella ____.

4. WILLIAM UNDERHULL, living in 1423, and who married Joan ____, and William's son Nicholas, Steward of the Manor of Stow Heath, living in 1481, and who married ____ Batte of Long Compton, Warwickshire, were both of Wolverhampton, Staffordshire. Children of Nicholas Underhull: John, Richard, Nicholas and William Underhull.

6. JOHN UNDERHULL of Ettington, Warwickshire, England, son of Nicholas and (Batte) Underhull, was born about 1450 at Wolverhampton, Staffordshire; died Nov. 29, 1518; married (2) Agnes Porter, who died 1526, daughter of Thomas Porter of Ettington, near Stratford-on-Avon. 7. THOMAS UNDERHILL of the Manor of Hunningham, Warwickshire, son of John and Agnes (Porter) Underhull, was born before 1486; died 1520; married Ann Wynter, who died before 1546, daughter of Robert Wynter of Huddington, Worcestershire. Children: Edward, Ralph, Thomas, Hugh, Elizabeth and Alice Underhill.

8. HUGH UNDERHILL, son of Thomas and Anne (Wynter) Underhill, was born about 1519, died in 1593; Keeper of the Wardrobe of Queen Elizabeth at Greenwich Palace. He married (2) Katherine Manning of Kent, born 1627, whose uncle was Sir Henry Manning, Marshal of the Household at Greenwich. He had two sons, Thomas and George.

"That Hugh Underhill enjoyed the special favor of Queen Elizabeth is inferred from the distinction bestowed upon him in 1590 when the Royal Grant set forth by the 'special grace' of the Queen, that her 'well-beloved subjects Hugh Underhill and Katherine his wife' were appointed to 'the office of keeper of our garden in the manor of East Greenwich, County of Kent, commonly called the Queen's Garden'; that the office was to be exercised by themselves for their lives or the life of the survivor and they were to enjoy 'all profits, commodities, advantages and emoluments pertaining to the office.' The Queen's Garden was a territory outside the domain of the head gardener of the Palace and appears to have been open only to privileged friends of the Queen." (From "Underhill Genealogy," Vol. II.)

9. THOMAS UNDERHILL, son of Hugh Underhill, was born in 1545, died in 1591. He became Keeper of the Wardrobe at Kenilworth Castle, seat of Robert Dudley, Earl of Leicester, favorite of Queen Elizabeth. Thomas married in 1570 Magdalen Amyas (died 1597), daughter of John (died 1553) and Anne Amyas. Children: Thomas, John, George, Lettice, Mary, Hugh and Clement Underhill.

10. JOHN UNDERHILL, son of Thomas and Magdalen (Amyas) Underhill, was born about 1574; died in 1608, in Holland, where he was probably a Sergeant in the English Military forces. He was in London in 1601; held land at Kenilworth in 1591. He married Honora (otherwise known as Onora, Honora, Leonora) Pawley, daughter of James and Isabelle (Bonython) Pawley. She died about 1650 at Newport, R. I., as wife of Richard Morris, with whom she came to New England, and he became Ensign to her son, Capt. John Underhill.

James Pawley, who died in 1587/8 at Bodminton, Cornwall, England, was son of Thomas Pawley, whose father Stephen Pawley of Gunwyn was in possession of lands mentioned in the Subsidy Rolls of 1524 and earlier. Isabelle Bonython, wife of James Pawley, was daughter of Richard and Jane (Durant) Bonython. (See Bonython Family.)

11. CAPT. JOHN UNDERHILL, JR., son of John and Honor (Pawley) Underhill, was born Oct. 7, 1597, at Baginton, near Killingworth, Warwickshire, England. He was brought to New England by Governor Winthrop, in command of the ship "Mary and John," named for the Governor's parents, and he became the chief military authority of the colony; an original member of the "Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company" of Boston, which still endures. He joined the First Church, Aug. 27, 1630; was a Selectman, and a member of the General Court of Stamford, in 1634. He moved in 1644 to New Amsterdam (now New York City), where he commanded forces against the Indians. He removed to Rhode Island in 1653; to Oyster Bay, N. Y., in 1661, where he became High Constable and Under Sheriff, and Delegate to Hempstead Convention. He died July 21, 1672, at Killingworth, L. I., which he had named in remembrance of his ancestors at Killingworth, England. At Locust Valley a stately monument has been erected by the Underhill Society of America.

He married (1) Dec. 12, 1628, Helena de Hooch, at The Hague, Holland. She was born at Goringhem, Holland, in 1649, and died in 1658 at Southold, L. I.; daughter of William and Govertge (Emonts) de Hooch, and grand-daughter of John de Hooch. By her he had three children. He married (2), before 1659, Elizabeth Feake, daughter of Lieut. (In 1797, Royal Tyler, under the pen name of Dr. Updike Underhill, brought out the novel, "The Algerine Captive," the first American novel to appear in England. The hero of the book, Benoni Underhill, he represented as the eldest son of Capt. John Underhill, and a direct ancestor of Dr. Updike, both apparently imaginary characters, but from such slender beginnings an unknown compiler built up a detailed family tree which has been accepted by some of the Underhill name in good faith, although genealogists have been unable to find a trace of Benoni or his line in any public records.)

Y., where he was a prosperous merchant and trader with the Indians; so prosperous that he was able to leave by will to his wife all his property, "whether situated in Albany, in Schenectady, in New York, in England, in Holland, or at sea." He was one of 15 original Proprietors of Schenectady in 1662. He married April 4, 1658, Lysbet Dirckse Van Eps, a very capable business woman, daughter of Dirck and Maritje (Damen) Van Eps, who lived in Albany, 1650-1660.

2. EVERT BANCKER, son of Gerrit and Lysbet (Van Eps) Bancker, was born Jan. 24, 1665. He resided at Albany for many years, but died at his farm at Guildersland, N. Y., in July 1734. He was a merchant, like his father, and Commissioner of Indian Affairs, which was of considerable pecuniary advantage to him as an Indian trader. He furnished supplies for the fusileers in King William's (Indian) War. He was a Justice of the Peace, and twice Mayor of Albany (appointed by the Common Council). He was elected Representative from Albany in the ninth Colonial Assembly and served from Oct. 20, 1702, to Nov. 6, 1704; was appointed a master of the Colonial Court of Chancery in 1705.

He obtained from Colonel Fletcher, Governor of the Province, an extraordinary tract of land, four miles wide, two on each side of the Mohawk River, and extending up the river some fifty miles, to a place called Arach Schone. For this immense tract they were to pay a reserved rent of one beaver skin a year for seven years, and after that five beaver skins yearly forever after. In 1699, the Assembly passed an Act annulling several of such extravagant grants, including this one.

In 1711 he was one of the managers of the expedition against Canada in Queen Anne's War. His reports and correspondence in connection with this expedition are to be found among the Albany manuscripts. He came to America, and settled at Albany, where he became a Master Builder. CHAPTER III

THE LATTA BRANCH

(Margaret Douglas Latta married Wakeman Griffin Gribbel.)

1. REV. JAMES M. LATTA, of County Donegal, near Londonderry, Ireland, is the first known of this family in America. He set sail with his four brothers, was shipwrecked off the coast of Maryland, and settled, about 1738, at Elkton, Md. By his first wife, who died in Ireland, he had three sons, Samuel, William and John; also James Latta, by his second wife, Mary Alison (born at Leck, in County Donegal), whom he married in Dublin. Both died about 1745.

The Lattas of Londonderry say that the family came originally to Ireland from the Ayrshire coast of Western Scotland, about 1620, and before that from Northern France and Brabant (the modern Belgium).

2. REV. JAMES LATTA, JR., D.D., who was the son of Rev. James and Mary (Alison) Latta, was born about 1732 in Ireland. He came with his parents to America in 1738, and was a member of the class of 1757, the first class of the University of Pennsylvania (then the College of Philadelphia). In 1770 he was called as pastor to the Chestnut Level (Quarryville) Church, Lancaster County, Pa., and he served the congregation there for several years, his salary being £100 a year, which was never increased, nor was it paid every year. In the 1790's the degree of Doctor of Divinity was conferred on him by the University of Pennsylvania. He favored incorporation of the congregation, against the opposition of many who feared the incumbrance involved. He succeeded in introducing the Watts Psalmody, though it necessitated his publishing a pamphlet in favor of the new hymns. He was also Principal of the Academy at Quarryville for many years. He served as Chaplain in the Revolution for a short time; served in a detachment commanded by Lieut. Joshua Anderson, in Col. Thomas Parker's Battalion of Lancaster County Associators, in the Jersey Campaign of 1776. James Latta married Mary McCalla, born 1743, daughter of Capt. William McCalla of Plumstead, Bucks County, Pa. He died in 1801, and is buried at Chestnut Level. His widow lived on the family farm until her death, Feb. 28, 1810. His wife had died in Europe. In America he remarried and had 3 daughters. THE GEORGE W. ELKINS FAMILY

WILLIAM L. ELKINS AND WIFE, LOUISE BROOMALL

THE HOWELL LINE

1. THOMAS HOWELL, probably then of Tamworth, Warwickshire, England, embarked at Deal, Aug. 31, 1682, with his sons and daughters, on the ship "Welcome" which brought to America William Penn as head of the government established in Pennsylvania. He was probably a member of the Church of England, however. He possessed a landed estate in Tamworth, which he left by will to his son Daniel, and in America he came into ownership of a large tract in the western part of New Jersey, which province was originally granted by Charles II to his brother, James Duke of York, June 24, 1664, and by him given the name of "Nova Caesarea or New Jersey." Thomas was elected to the Assembly of the Colony in 1683 (two sessions), and 1685. He died at Cooper's Creek, Gloucester (now Camden) County, N. J., in 1687. He married in England, Katherine —, who came to America after his death, and died in Philadelphia in Sept. or Oct. 1695.

In 1690 he removed to Philadelphia, where he served on the Grand Jury in 1701; and later to Solebury township, Bucks County, Pa., where he died in Sept. 1739. He married Sept. 4, 1686, Hannah Lakin of Philadelphia, who died before her husband (not named in his will).

3. CAPT. DANIEL HOWELL, JR., son of Daniel and Hannah (Lakin) Howell, was born at "Livewell," on Cooper's Creek, Gloucester (now Camden) County, N. J., about 1688; died in Amwell Township, Hunterdon County, N. J., in 1733. He was a farmer and miller; later engaged in copper-mining, the earliest mining industry in Huntingdon County. He served on the first Grand Jury in the county in 1719, as the first Coroner in 1721, and in 1722 as one of the first Assessors; also became a Commissioner of Highways in 1723, and Justice of the Peace in 1725. In 1727 he was commissioned an Associate Judge of the Court of Common Pleas, and also Captain of the Regiment of Militia whereof John Reading, Esq., was Colonel. He married about 1710, Elsie Reading, daughter of Col. John and Elizabeth Reading. She died before him (not mentioned in his will).

Col. John Reading, probably a member of the London Company that promoted the settlement of the Province of New Jersey, emigrated to this country in 1684, settling in Arwames (now Gloucester City), the seat of Gloucester County. He was annually elected County Clerk, from 1688 to 1702; also surveyed a large part of the town lots. He was also County Recorder, and ran an early ferry over Gloucester River, as shown in a ferry franchise still preserved.

Ferry Franchise of June 1, 1693:

"The Grand Jury consenteth to and presenteth the proposals of John Reading, for keeping a ferry over Gloucester River, and from Gloucester to Wickaco, at ye prices following. That is to say for a single man and horse two shillings and six pence: and four shillings per head for more than one horse or cow, and one shilling and six pence for a single man, and one shilling per head where more than one from Gloucester to Wickaco, and five pence per head for horses, cows, etc., and two pence per head for man without horses or cattle, over Gloucester River. To all which ye Bench Consents."

Colonel Reading was a member of the Assembly of 1697, also in 1702. In 1704 he began purchasing lands in Amwell Township, Hunterdon County, which he had visited in his negotiations with the Indians, and eventually he established his residence at Reading's Landing on the Delaware River, where the Old York Road to Philadelphia starts. At Amwell he became Lieutenant-Colonel in the Militia. He died in Oct. 1717. He married Elizabeth —, probably before his emigration to America. Children: Elsie and John Reading.
